

A Never Ending Quest

Looked out my window, what did I see?
I saw the sun shining down on a green meadow

I checked this morning, how can it be?
There should be rain streaming down my window

We took a picnic, down by the stream
You gotta live today as you never know tomorrow

We took our rain coats, and our sun cream
It seemed a time to be better safe than sorry

Chorus :
And they cause us loads of trouble
Cause they know not what they do
They leave us wondering why
There's no clouds – it's still clear blue
We forgive them their mistakes
'Cause we know they haven't a clue
In the never ending quest to know the weather

<Chorus>

To know the weather
To know the weather
To know the weather
To know the weather
